President's Message

by Jim Zuelow (jimzuelow@aol.com)

I have not received any responses to my question in the 3rd Quarter of 2004 TAP issue asking about the geographical location of Mitchell, Alaska, a pre-Klondike Gold Rush era post office. Donald J. Orth's "Dictionary of Alaska Place Names" does not include any information about the site. Richard Helbock reports the post office (1889-1895) was located inside Canada at a trading post operated by LeRoy N. McQuesten at Forty Mile on the Yukon River. However, Robert Woodall in "The Postal History of Yukon Territory, Canada" reports Mitchell may have been located up the Forty Mile River in U.S. territory. A visitor to Forty Mile in 1893, Warburton Pike, in "Through the Sub-Arctic Forest" also seems to imply that McQuesten was not the postmaster! At least we know that an 1895 postal card mailed to England from Mitchell was one of the top-selling individual items in the Seely Hall collection that was sold in the H. R. Harmer Auction last February!

Investigating mysteries like the location of the Mitchell post office are one reason I enjoy Alaskan postal history. Keeping an eye out for postal items sent to or from noted Alaskans is another. I recall finding an old, ragged envelope sent by Rev. William T. Lopp that had been cancelled in Nome on August 18, 1904 in a box of $1.00 covers in Phoenix a few years ago. Lopp was a missionary friend of Sheldon Jackson who, among other things, headed a reindeer station on the Seward Peninsula beginning in 1899. Finding a Fairbanks & Seward RPO cancel on a letter sent to Anchorage from Pittman, Alaska, piqued my interest in looking for other Alaska Railroad station addresses. Looking for and finding variations of covers included in Eric Knapp's catalogs, and searching for an Anchorage Contract Station 11 cancel for Dirk van Gelderen are still other current interests.

How about letting our TAP readers know about some of your Alaskan postal history interests? You just might get some help --- and develop some new friendships (as I have) in the process!

Secretary- Treasurer's Report

by Eric Knapp

Before I go any further, please remember to vote in the club election included with this issue of the journal.

The Alaska Collectors Club closes out 2005 in pretty good shape. The treasury has grown some, Membership is down but not by much and we have some direction for the future. The financial reports for the year will appear in the next issue and a membership list will be generated and distributed to members in 2006.

Editors Note:

I know it seems like a broken record (how long will this phrase still be useful?) but the file of original articles for The Alaskan Philatelist is, once again, empty. I have some material we can reprint from other sources, but reprints do not a successful journal make. We need members to write about their studies, or the interesting items in their collections. Thank you.

Some Thoughts

Well, 2005 is about over and must say I have had better years. Between the deaths of several club members and the tragic accident at the Boy Scout Jamboree, I have lost too many friends this year. Hopefully there will be less of this next year. We will see.

One thing that I noticed in a couple of these cases is that the people who are now gone had plans for things they had to do "when they had time" or had to do lists because the "had lots of time."

It has gotten me thinking about all the things I plan to do "someday" or "when I get time." I have decided I need to start "making time" for the things on my list.

On a better note, winter in Anchorage has been good so far. Until next time.

*Club members want to hear

50th Anniversary of Alaska Constitution

by Eric Knapp

The winter of 2005–06 marks the 50th anniversary of the Alaska Constitutional convention. The convention had been called by the territorial legislature in an effort to prove that the Territory of Alaska had the political maturity to become a state.

The convention began on November 8th at the University of Alaska at College, outside of Fairbanks. William Egan of Valdez was elected as the chairman of the convention. The 55 delegates worked until February to complete the document. The work was finished on February 5th.

The National Municipal League calls the Alaska Constitution “one of the best, if not the best, state constitutions ever written.” It is brief, only 14,000 words as submitted to the voters. It is a broad outline for a government rather than detailed instructions and it has served Alaska well.

The Alaska Constitution and the Convention Minutes can be read at www.state.ak.us/courts/aklegal.htm#const.

The cover shown here was cancelled on the day and the hour of the signing of the document.

Also, The Gastineau Philatelic Society and the Anchorage Philatelic Society are honoring the Alaska Constitution with a joint project. The Gastineau Philatelic Society’s stamp show, PANEX, honored the start of the convention and the Anchorage Philatelic Society’s stamp show, APEX, will honor the end of the convention.

ACC Elections 2005

Rules & Procedures of the Election

The official election ballot is included in this issue of TAP. Please complete the ballot and return it to the address on the ballot by January 31st. Please mark "ACC Election" on the outside of the envelope. This will keep the ballot from being opened early. If you wish, you may send your annual dues in the same envelope.

The votes will be tabulated by an election board made up of ACC members who are not running for office. The results will be reported to the current Board of Directors, the candidates, and will be published in the first quarter issue of The Alaskan Philatelist. A news release will also be sent to the philatelic media. The newly elected officers will assume office immediately and hold office until December 31, 2007.

Election Biographies

CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

Jim Zuelow

I've been a collector of Alaskan postal history since 1965 when I moved to rural Alaska from Minnesota to work as a teacher. After serving 13 years a superintendent of schools in Alaska, I retired to Arizona in 1990 where I have been active in real estate since 1992.

My two adult children live in Alaska and my wife, Virginia, owns and operates her own tax preparation business and is a Certified Financial Planner. I've been a member of the American Philatelic Society since 1967, and of the Alaska Collectors Club since 1993. I have served as a Director since 2000, and have written a few articles for publication in The Alaskan Philatelist. I hope any Club members who visit Tucson, Arizona, will contact me so we can meet and get together to compare collecting interests.

CANDIDATE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Angela Watson

I have been a stamp collector for over 20 years and am an APS Life Member. I have always been attracted to Alaska's history and probably because I live 2000 miles away, it's history seems so exotic and remote, filled with folklore and tales.

I feel that I could make valuable contributions to ACC as its Vice President. On a personal note, I am a graphic artist by trade and have been assisting the editor for about 3 years in the design of the newsletter for ACC.

CANDIDATES FOR DIRECTOR

Nelson Gnrke

I was born in Newton, Massachusetts, in 1938. My stamp collecting interest began at the age of six when my Postal clerk father brought home blocks of stamps from work. Though a closet collector until 1987 when I joined the Anchorage Philatelic Society I continued accumulating throughout all those years concentrating on stamps of the USA and Canada. Alaskan philately and postal history was added to my interest level after a short time of exploring through items in the annual bourse at APEX. I served the Anchorage stamp club as an officer from 1991 until 2002 when I moved from Anchorage to Hermitage, Missouri. I served as President for three of those years and was editor of the Anchorage Philatelist for the last seven years before my move. During this time I also joined the Alaska Collector's Club. I would be honored to serve the club as a director.

Dirk van Gelderen

I was born in 1957 in Boskoop, Holland and have always lived there. I started collecting when I was 5 and from the beginning I collected USA stamps which I still do. In the early 1970's my father and I started collecting Bosnia and Herzegovina (nobody then knew where that was) and together we built one of the largest collections now in existence. In 1984 I visited Alaska and as a memento I mailed from all towns visited a card home. Directly afterwards, but still not really seriously I wrote to all other postmasters asking for a postmark. One was sent in error to the late Ray Fay of Mansfield, OH and he got me really hooked on Alaska Postal History. Currently I am trying to complete my catalogue of Alaska Statehood Postmarks which will be available on CD ROM together with Richard Helbock's work on the Territorials. It is also available on-line at www.esveld.nl/alaska/alaska.htm for free.

Bob Spaugy

My name is Bob Spaugy. I am an accidental latecomer to stamp collecting. We had arrived in Anchorage just before Christmas in 1969. All of our son's toys and presents were lost somewhere in transit. We knew Venus and Jack Lamb from coin collecting and Venus suggested we get my son John a stamp album and some stamps. On Christmas Day, John thanked us but was totally uninterested in stamps. Out of curiosity, I placed the stamps in the album and was hooked.

We were closet collectors until 1979 when we joined the Anchorage Philatelic Society. I served a number of years as Treasurer and have been keeping the books since 1982. Lately I have been the corresponding Secretary and a few years back began working with Dave Schwantes on producing the club covers. The cost of commercial printing went out of sight but we found we could do a credible job with home computer, scanner and ink jet printer.

From the very beginning I was interested in stamps and had little interest in covers or postal history. More to support the club and its members I would purchase each cover and dump them into a box. I insisted I was a stamp collector and not a cover collector. When looking around I find volume after volume of covers including a complete APEX set and hundreds of other so I must admit to being a cover collector. I joined ACC during the drive to revitalize it and have been a sustaining member ever since.

The Last Word

Please take the time to vote in this election. We have a good bunch of candidates and they need all of the support you can give them. Thank you.

What Is It?

Response to a previous "What is it?"
Hal Vogel, 1 Oct 2005

Dear Eric,

Sorry we could not have had a discussion closer than over the phone the last time I was in Anchorage, but it nonetheless still was nice that we at least could have that brief conversation that we did have. Maybe next time it can be longer.

Relative to the "What Is It?" subject on the last page of TAP 215 (3rd Qtr 2005), I too have been trying to investigate this matter and suggest that although you might very well be absolutely correct that those mercy flight triangles may not relate to any proposed serum flight (or worse, be a fraudulent attempt to benefit from the event), there still might be a smidgen of research yet to be done before closing this subject.

The reason I believe this is a realization that a flight still was being anticipated, even as the first serum run was occurring. A subsequent serum shipment was needed, that was being sent by ship and train to Fairbanks. It was anticipated or hoped (in print) that the second batch would be flown to Nome. Newspaper accounts have individuals suggesting that Army aviator Lt. Eric Nelson or civilian aviator Roy Darling be used for that purpose. Darling even is said was preparing to reassemble his plane for a flight from Anchorage to Fairbanks in anticipation of this mission.

The above information appears in Universal Service (later UP, I believe) dispatches from Alaska as printed in Baltimore American 2 February 1925. One article even references his mechanic on the proposed Anchorage-Fairbanks-Nome flight in a De Havilland (Sergeant Farnsworth). A reporter named Mackie is mentioned elsewhere as preparing to accompany one of the flights (presumably the Army one). I seem to recall that a Ralph Mackie also might have been involved in a 1926 press flight with news from Alaska relating to the Norge landing at Teller.

What this all suggests (though does not prove) is that there was "aviation in the air" (i.e., being thought and planned for) relative to the second serum shipment that was en route for Seward aboard Alameda.

My suggestion is that a review be done of the Anchorage newspaper from about 1 February 1925 to see if Darling's takeoff for Fairbanks had occurred. Even if it had not, there probably still would be a reference to its cancellation for whatever reason. There also may be subsequent mention of the fate of the proposed Army flight by Nelson. Finally, it probably would be useful to trace reports about how the second serum shipment went from Seward to Nome.

I also would have wanted to scour the press for any mention of supportive flight vignettes, but you seem already to have done this without having found any. Of course, this does not mean that it was not occurring or being planned, though neither does it provide support for their legitimate connection to the proposed flight. I-lope this has been useful.

Best,

Hal Vogel, 19 Neptune Lane, Willingboro, NJ 08046

Gold Nugget

One Mail Contractor's View

Mary Hitchcock and Edith Van Dorn, two wealthy and adventurous women who were "doing the Klondike" as tourists in the summer of 1898, were surprised by the tediously slow gold rush mail service. In her book, "Two Women in the Klondike," Mary Hitchcock wrote about their introduction to Klondike mail service.

[Thursday, July 28th]

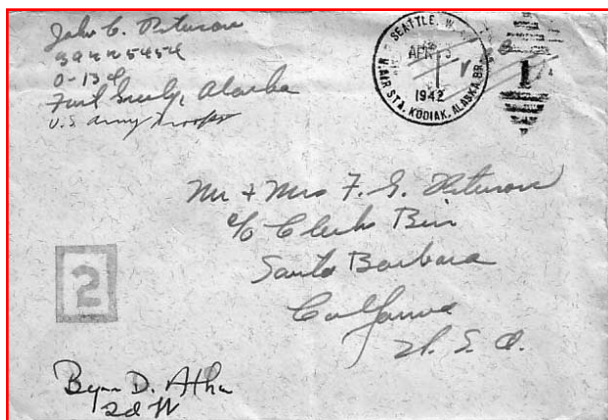

"The first visit that Edith and I paid this morning was to the post-office, to inquire for the large batch of mail we supposed had been sent in to us over the Pass. To our great astonishment there was but one letter. We sent for the post-master, who listened most courteously as we told him of the books, magazines, and papers which we had ordered to be forwarded long before our departure. He politely explained that a very small mail had been sent in over the Pass, but that the greater quantity would come by the Alliance according to contract made by our Government. First disappointment."

What Is It?

John Spicer has sent the following 2 items. He is looking for any information he can get on them. "As a comparative newcomer to Alaskan collecting, I would appreciate assistance with the following.

Item 1 Will Rogers/Wiley Post commemorative postmark dated 15 AUG 1938 has time of 9.00AM.

Item 2 Cover has a figure "2" in square box above signature of censor officer. Is this a censor mark?

Any assistance would be appreciated. Write him at: John Spicer, 18 Leycroft Way, Harpenden, Herts, AL5 1JW, United Kingdom.

State Postal History Registry

The National Postal Museum's State Postal History Registry is up and running. The Alaska Collectors Club is listed as primary contact for the Alaska part of the site. The registry is located at: <http://www.postalmuseum.si.edu/statepostal-history/index.html>

Gold Nugget

Americans Abroad

At the height of the gold rush boom, most of Dawson's population was American-born. For those now living so far from home, getting to the gold fields may have seemed easy compared to getting their mail. Both the Canadian and the U.S. government were caught off guard by the speed and volume of the stampede. During the summer, mail could be carried by boat along the Yukon from St. Michael's, Alaska, but winter mail was brought up from Skagway, across the pass and into Dawson by dog sled. First class mail had the best chance of getting through, especially during winter months. Everything else was left for summer steamships.

Citizens occasionally hired individual carriers to carry the mail during the winter, but they were not always reliable. In April 1898, word reached Dawson that one carrier had used the letters he was hired to transport to "kindle his camp fires."

For those who remained in the Klondike, gold fever dimmed, but it never disappeared. In 1899, rumors of a massive strike on the western Alaskan coast near Cape Nome flooded Dawson. Thousands picked up and traveled west. Those who missed their chance in Nome had other opportunities as strikes were made over the next few years across the Alaskan territory.

Member Questionnaire for Newsletter Article

We're going to try a different tack with this feature. Here is the questionnaire, so now everyone can fill it out and send it in for publication in the newsletter. Please take a few minutes and send this in. We'd love to feature all our members in the newsletter. This is an especially important feature in a club with no regularly scheduled meetings. We will need three things from you:

- 1) this sheet with you filled in answers (add other sheets as necessary),
- 2) a recent photo of you (prefer clear, well- focused and good contrast photos), and
- 3) a color photocopy of your favorite piece of Alaskan Postal History.

Please drop all those things in the mail back to me at: Angela Watson • 5519 E. Mezzanine Way • Long Beach, CA 90808.
Thanks!

1. Please list your name place of residence and age: _____

2. What is your occupation? _____

Interesting & Miscellaneous

Philatelists Psalm

by Erma V. Berkley (with apologies to David)

Stamp collecting is my hobby, I shall not be bored,
It maketh me to do research on far places.
It causeth me to correspond with odd people,
It keepeth me alert.
It leadeth me into areas of understanding for curiosity's sake.

Yea, though I live through a winter of inclement weather,
I will fear no boredom, for my stamps are with me.
Their beauty and their history, they intrigue me,
They provideth me a means of escaping from the tensions of my responsibilities.

They filleth my house with books.
My cash runneth lower.
Surely interest and knowledge shall follow me all the days of my life,
And I shall be listed in the ranks of the Philatelists forever.

A Request of our Members

I'm corresponding with you in hopes that you can send me a donation supply of U.S. or foreign stamps. Mint or used, on or off paper, mission mixtures, Truncial States, etc.

Your help will be used for missions related work here in the U.S. and overseas. Also to help young people in this area start stamp collecting.

Thanks,

Covers for Sale

My Mom is interested in selling her Alaska Apex covers. They start with #1 in 1953 and go to #22 in 1974. Do you know who I could contact to get an estimate on the value of the collection, and who you would know that might be interested in them?

She also has some Apollo stamp moon landing first day issue covers that were mailed from Anchorage on both the days they left earth and the day they landed on the moon. One cover in particular has "man's first landing on the moon" with 7 different stamps- 5 space, 1 Kennedy, 1 Goddard, cancelled on July 20 1969 and Sept 9, 1969. All are in great condition.

Also a National Parks Centennial Stamp on a "McKinley Assault for Cancer" cover that was hand carried to the top of Mt McKinley by Ray Genet postmarked in Talk-eetna, AK.

She has covers for philatelic exhibitions, the Alaska Highway, 1st day issue of Cpt Cook's 200th Anniversary with Cook stamps, 1st day issue of National Park series, 1974 Arctic Winter Games, 1974 Iditarod Dog Sled Race, Alaska Pioneer Aviators (Reeves, Wein, and Gillam), several 1st day issues of the Alaska Purchase centennial and several others too numerous to mention. Plus, Duck stamps from 1957 to 1973.

Thanks for any help you may be able to give me.

Email a Living Legend

Dear Club Members,

If you really want to know about Alaska's postal history then you should contact Alaska's first lady of Postal history, Postmaster Alice Brusich (retired) Postmaster of Ketchikan and Ward Cove, Former President, Vice President, Secretary Treasurer for Alaska's Chapter of Napus and Currently of the Retired Postmasters of Alaska. Alice at 82 still lives in Ketchikan where she has converted part of her home into a living museum of Alaskan postal history.

Alice has an email address but you must show patience as she is new to the internet and finds it a strange place coming from her background of paper mail.

To contact Alice, email her at aliceb@kpunet.net.
